Just-in-Time Personalisation of e-content

Research Aim
Just-in-time development of a personal information space in which content, navigation, and interface are adapted according to the individual information and navigation requirements from an evolvable user model.

User-centred design: an individual differences approach

Architecture of the prototype system

References